

TEAM 1

- Detroit, Michigan; Johannesburg, South Africa; and Brisbane, Australia all have sports teams named after this animal. Lion
- The comedian Demetri Martin voices this animal on the TV show “We Bare Bears”. Polar bear/”Ice Bear”
- A popular variant of the Ford Mustang is named after this animal. Cobra
- Sadly, these guys aren’t related to Fulton Reed, Charlie Conway, or that cake-eater Adam Banks, but they do fly together. Duck
- If this animal could drive, he’d likely hop into a British Racing Green-colored XKE or an F-Type. Jaguar

TEAM 2

- The “Hiphopapotamus” got into a rap battle with this animal on the TV series “Flight of the Conchords”. Rhinoceros
- Find the only structure in the Zoo that has been here since the 1904 World’s Fair. Bird Cage
- This animal has a good reason to really like Wednesdays. Camel
- Before Mike Tyson prowled around Vegas with this animal, Siegfried and Roy performed nightly magic shows with them at the Mirage. Tiger
- Find the animal depicted in the STL Zoo’s logo. Gazelle

TEAM 3

- For almost a century, the Oakland Athletics have had this animal as their mascot. Elephant
- If you ate Froot Loops this morning, you saw this bird on the box. Toucan
- In the early 2000s, there was a minor-league hockey team in St Louis with this animal as their mascot. Otter
- You might have played against a team from Oakland, Michigan with this animal as its mascot. Grizzly bear
- In comic books, the villain born “Oswald Cobblepot” goes by this animal name. Penguin

TEAM 4

- Referees are big fans of this animal. Zebra
- A brand of soccer cleats (and gear—Manchester City and Dortmund are sponsored by them) is named after this animal. Puma
- This animal might be related to Winston from “Overwatch”. Gorilla
- If you read the “George and Martha” books as a kid, you’d recognize these animals. Hippo
- If this animal heard you play the song “Kiss from a Rose”, he’d probably like it. Seal

TEAM 5

- The Miami Hurricanes use this bird as their human mascot: he's named "Sebastian".
Ibis
- One of the most interesting exhibits at the STL Zoo involves these animals, who have food lifted up into their treetop habitat each day. Orangutan
- Rumor has it this animal was named after Muhammad Ali. Or maybe it was Michael Jordan, or was it LeBron James? Either way, he's pretty great. Goat
- Before it went out of business, Toys 'R' Us had this animal as its mascot. Giraffe
- Be lucky that we're here during the summer: in the winter these animals aren't here, because they're off being lawn ornaments. Flamingo
